Turk Premier's Speech Indicates Allied Leanings

ANKARA, Turkey, March 18.—(AP)—Premier Suku Saracoglu's speech to the newly elected national assembly, leaned more sharply toward the United Nations than any address by Turkish leaders since the outbreak of the war, observers agreed. The speech brought a vote of confidence from the assembly for Saracoglu's newly formed government.

Saracoglu's speech appeared to play down Turkish relations with the Axis in a way which has been evidenced since the Ankara conference between President Inanet and Prime Minister Churchill.

The address indicated that Turkey bases her foreign policy almost exclusively on her alliance with Britain.

The premier declared: "Turkey's love and respect go due to the democratic and republican people of America, returning the good wishes expressed in the United States senate after President Roosevelt's election."

His speech made no reference to Germany but he did refer to the British statesman, adding "all around us, with Churchill at the head of the list, we see all British statesmen stretching their hands towards us."

He added: "Let us shake our British friends' hands ever with deep sincerity. It is our conviction that Turkish-British friendship is dictated not by mutual material interests but by the vital imperative of both sides."

MOSCOW, March 18.—(AP)—The Red army, bounding back in counter-attacks, have buried the Germans out of several more villages only 15 miles southeast of Izhm Kharkov and seized two more strong points further to the south-east, front dispatches said today.

Further north, the Russians overran nearly 60 more towns and hamlets in their enveloping advance on the great German central front of Smolensk and, slashing across a water barrier, seized 10 strongly fortified towns on the northeastern front below Lake Ilmen.

(The London radio said Russian armies were within 40 miles of Smolensk.)

The Germans sent scores of Stukas—junkers 87 and 88 dive-bombers—against the Russian positions on the south bank of the northern Dvina river but Kharkov after their tank hordes had failed to break the Russian line, the Soviet field reports said.

SMASH NAZI BOMBERS
Red air fighter forces and deadly Stukas—junkers 87 and 88 dive-bombers—were seen tearing into the German bomber formations and sending many bombers hurtling to the ground in flames. Other Soviet planes raked the German formations with machine gun fire.

The fighting closed to Kharkov was in the area just above the city, 22 miles southeast of the important Ukrainian city. One of the newly-regained villages fell to the Russians in a counter attack that followed close behind the German assault, the mid-day communique reported.

About 600 German officers and men were killed and material and equipment were captured, the communique said.

Wheat Advance Is Attributed To U.S. Buying

REGINA, March 18.—(CP)—George Robertson, secretary of the Saskatchewan Wheat Pool, in a statement yesterday said that the advance in wheat prices is still possible to speculate for private gain in vital foodstuffs.

He commented that the price advance, which has brought May and July advance the $1 a bushel mark on the Winnipeg market, was said.

"The advance in Canadian wheat prices has been popularly attributed to United States buying and this is probably correct."

SEVERAL ANSWERS

"There are several probable answers to the present position of the American traders have looked at the Winnipeg and Chicago markets and decided that the spread is too wide. Judging by the decline in Chicago prices, they may have said Chicago wheat and purchased an amount of wheat on the Winnipeg market, and a profit for them."

"This transaction will not help to move a single bushel of Canadian wheat into consumption. It merely illustrates the fact that even under war conditions it is still possible to speculate for private gain in vital foodstuffs."

"On the other hand these U.S. dealers may have looked at the wheat price and have concluded that the Canadian wheat at 90 cents is too low in relation to its actual value as an important source of food supply and have decided that since U.S. prices are pretty well established at a level of at least 80 cents per bushel above Canadian prices, that Canadian wheat must ultimately sell at something closer to the U.S. level."

"FUTURES AVAILABLE"

"The Canadian wheat board is not prepared to supply wheat to the holder of wheat futures. It would appear therefore that the wheat board must have made available sufficient futures to meet the U.S. demand. It would also appear that the advance in price of Canadian wheat has been largely controlled by the Canadian wheat board."

"The question that will be of interest to wheat growers will be whether the fact that July wheat has been allowed to advance to $1.00 per bushel can be taken as indicating that the Dominion government is now prepared to admit that present prices are too low and that an increase will be approved in connection with the marketing of the 1943 crop."

French Block Italian Troops In Mountains

By JOHN A. PARRIS

Exclusive to The Edmonton Bulletin

LONDON, March 18.—French frontier forces retreated deeper into the mountains today, sending bombers and landings crashing down the mountain slopes, killing or wounding Italian troops moving against them.

From the Swiss frontier, the guerrillas had split into small units placed at strategic points along the winding mountain roads leading into the Thonon area.

Two reports told of one tremendous landslide believed started by guerrilla dynamite. It was said to have crushed such proportions that families living in the foothills of the French border homes.

ITALIANS STALLED

That Italian column, which included Vichy militia, was said to have been stalled by guerrilla tactics.

London radio, quoting Swiss reports, said that the Italian forces were trying to exert pressure on the guerrillas by attacking a number of hostages.

Reports from the Morozzo and the Italian frontier area said French mobile guards still were confined to the two heavy battalions and a few Italian troops.

Defences Stronger Minister of Navy Denies St. Lawrence Battle Lost, Answers Sinking Charges

OTTAWA, March 12.—(CP)—Voyage Minister Macdonald said in the House of Commons yesterday that only three out of every 1,000 tons of shipping moving through the Gulf of St. Lawrence had been sunk and that "we have not lost the battle of the gulf."

The minister replied to charges of shipping losses in the St. Lawrence area which had been made by Hon. Olesime Gagnon (Un. Matine) in the Quebec legislature and by J. S. Roy (Ind. Gaspé) in the House of Commons.

Mr. Macdonald gave the names of 18 merchantmen, a corvette and a patrol ship which had been sunk in the St. Lawrence area. This was the total known to the navy and compared with charges of Gagnon that more than 30 ships had been lost.

Mr. Roy had spoken of "a battle lasting 1½ hours between two convoys in the Gulf of St. Lawrence in which no assistance from aircraft had been received by the surface craft."

BATTLE REPORT FALSE

Mr. Macdonald said that in fact there was no battle, that the sinking was simply two convoys engaged in gun practice on the river. There was no submarine.

The defenders of the gulf and river this year were stronger than last year, "but I am not saying that even if we doubled or trebled our naval forces, we could not guarantee complete immunity from submarine attack."

"That is something no nation in the world has succeeded in doing," the minister said.

He had sunk ships off the American and Canadian coasts. The Gulf had sunk many vessels close to Japan.

Macdonald's address, made during the budget debate, was interspersed with brisk clashes with the members of the opposition.

At one point, Mr. Macdonald declared that J. F. Brannan (Lib. New Brunswick) be required to observe the house rules of order.

Mr. Gagnon had denied that the minister's statements were untrue. He said 20 merchant ships had been sunk. Newspaper headlines had featured the claim that more than 30 ships had been sunk, said Mr. Macdonald.

NAMES NOT PRODUCED

He had asked Mr. Gagnon to produce the names and details but Mr. Gagnon had not done so. "I cannot do so," because there were many ships sunk.

To settle the whole question he now proposed to give the names of all vessels sunk. Vital Arms Needed

Canada Nickel Stockpile For War Requirements Of All United Nations

The International Nickel Company of Canada Limited has become in fact an international institution. Probably it would be better to say the company has become a United Nations institution.

The fact is the entire stupendous output of this world's largest nickel-producing establishment is dumped in the huge stockpile of the United Nations and forms a vitally-important portion of the international pool of materials. This state of affairs will prevail until the final and inevitable triumph over the Axis.

This was the reason brought to Edmonton by C. E. Macdonald, manager for Canadian sales of the great nickel producer.

ENTIRE OUTPUT FOR WAR

"A salesman in reverse" is the way Mr. Macdonald described himself, explaining with the observation that virtually the entire production of Canadian nickel is used for war purposes. "Nickel for industrial purposes has to be obtained through the metals controller for Canada and it's some job convincing him you need any nickel."

Asked by The Bulletin if entrance of the United States into the war had resulted in more nickel being shipped to the U.S., Mr. Macdonald replied:

"We don't even let in terms of one nation or another."

The Canadian American and British metal controllers sit down and figure out where nickel is needed at a given time and it is where it is needed. There are no individual nations."

"And the company itself has no say in what is done with the nickel of the mines and plants," he added with a smile.

Because Canada has more than 90 per cent of the world's known supply of nickel ore, the United Nations possess a real ace-in-the-hole in the great struggle against the Axis.

Nickel is needed in virtually every kind of weapon used in modern warfare. Artillery of all kinds, smaller arms, machinery, electrical instruments of every description and many other devices utilized in war, require nickel in large or small quantities. Transformers and portable radio sets also require nickel.

Many of the guns and other weapons used in war can be made without nickel but they are greatly inferior in quality and much less reliable in operation, Mr. Macdonald said. This gives the United Nations a real edge, thanks to Canada's huge nickel supply.

Not only does Canada produce nearly all of the nickel mined in the world but the mining itself is amazingly confined to a tiny area, or basin, just 35 miles long and 15 miles in width near Sudbury, Ont.

STATISTICS SECRET

The obvious reason, of a military nature, statistics concerning production figures can not be published at this time, but the mines and refining plants are now producing more than double the highest pre-war output.

Before the war we always worked the mines on the principle there was 30 years supply of ore ahead, but since the war has more than doubled production, we are actually looking to the future with a little uneasiness as to supply," Mr. Macdonald said.

New processes of refining and new methods of mining are on the other hand, making for better conservation. International Nickel Company of Canada now handles, maintains modern research laboratories at Coppercliff, in Canada, in the U.S.A. and at Birmingham, England.

Like a war-time leader at the present time Mr. Macdonald is looking to the future after the war. "The future will be many changes," he said.

Nickel has a great and alluring role in that brighter, happier world of tomorrow, he feels.

MAGIC BUILDING BLOCK

Nickel will prove functionally block for the Allied Land of marksmen, the electronic servant.

The delicate and wonderfully sensitive radio tube, by means of which armies, navies and aerial armada move in war, depend on nickel parts for their proper functioning. Many tiny springs are of the great Canadian metal.

In the world of tomorrow, nickel will prove functionally block for a thousand and one marvelously mechanical servants that will lighten the burden of mankind.

The company operation and maintenance schools in eastern Canada where the latest methods of scientific training are being given.

"Many young men from the prairies are doing fine work for us in the war," Mr. Macdonald said.

The sales manager was accompanied by W. C. Gilchrist, director of Cockfield, Brown and Company.

The two left for Calgary Wednesday night on the way to the west coast.

Progress Seen In Policies of Soviet Union

Stating that "lack of cooperation with Russia" was the main reason for the failure of the League of Nations, Dr. Rowan said that the Soviet Union was making progress in its policies.

Dr. Rowan, who has been teaching biological common sense and has been demonstrating the worth of political integrity, will make his figure as the alarums of the future.

When we consider man's brain and bird naturalist, addressed the Political Society of the University of Alberta at its final meeting Wednesday night.

"I believe Russia's policies are going to put her so far ahead of our own regime in every respect that it will not be a question of cooperation but something suspiciously like domination," he said.

Dr. Rowan said that the Soviet Union was making progress in its policies, but it was not unique, for even apes can think.

Auctioneer, J. W. Windsor, said that the same owners who went to the sale sold another good pair of Belgians, a mare and a gelding to the same buyer for $325.00.

The highest price of the day was a single horse when he sold $127.50 for a Belgian bay mare entered by F. F. Gendron, of Lacombe.

Horses sold on the first day totaled 288, for which $204.45 was paid by the buyers. Most of the horses were put up for shipment to eastern Canada.

AMONG BUYERS

Among the buyers at the sale are: Rex, Winnipeg; J. Ball, Winnipeg; F. M. Bernier, Winnipeg; Alex. Peck, Pickering, Ont.; J. W. Windsor, Lacombe; and others.

District News in Brief

Red Deer Youth Aids Salvage Drive

Red Deer are busy doing their bit in the war effort by way of collecting food and local meat shops report quite a quantity being turned in. Reason for the great activity on the part of the girls and boys is a special campaign which is being conducted by the Red Deer salvage committee.

R. C. Fisher, of Edmonton, provincial organizer, national salvage campaign, was here recently and discussed the matter at length with the Red Deer committee.

A survey of meat markets showed that 3200 pounds of fat had been delivered in the last six weeks. Lard, tallow and a goodly lot of the same buyer for $325.00.

Survey Airport Sites Proceeds

WHITECOURT.—A detailed survey of the proposed airport site in the valley northeast of the village has now been completed, and survey of an alternative location has commenced. The new survey is being run on a gently rolling jack-pine plateau south and east of the village. Construction of the airport on the site would probably require considerable labour than would be needed if the valley site should be chosen, but it is believed that a definite choice is made before a definite choice is made. This other possible site is said to be west of the village.

IN WHICH

HELD OVER AT RIALTO!

Box Office Records Shattered Here In Six Day Sensational Showing

Having broken all previous box office records at Edmonton's Rialto theatre, Noel Coward's "In Which We Serve" has been held over in order to give every Edmontonian an opportunity to see this smash hit. Manager J. J. Lieberman of the Rialto has decided to extend the run of this truly great picture, in response to numerous requests from leading Edmonton citizens.

"In Which We Serve" is a saga of the sea, a story of a British destroyer's part in the present conflict. It is also a story of men and of women who know what real human suffering is. Rarely does a film attain its highest aim so simply. Rarely are the characters in films more than distorted conceptions of the people they are supposed to portray. Rarely has a movie risen to breathing life into all its figures.

FEELING OF ONENESS
"In Which We Serve" does all these things. Here is a film that is almost completely documentary.

EDITOR'S NOTE—The pictures of Alberta Seamen on this page were selected at random from the scores on file in The Bulletin's library.

John Mills and Kay Walsh, appealing young lovers, who become devoted wedded pair during the off-sea action in "In Which We Serve". Noel Coward's epic of the Royal Navy now showing at Edmonton's Rialto Theatre.

The tale of a British destroyer, the men who man it, their wives and sweethearts, the lives they live, their fight with the enemy, their love for the ship they serve in the undisturbed courage of the crew, all make one forget that here is a film produced by people. Instead one gets the feeling of being with the men, of living with their families, of the oneness of operator and actor which is the highest accomplishment of acting.

Noel Coward produces and takes the lead in "In Which We Serve". But it is not the usual Noel Coward. There is no frivolous here, no jesting, no place is made for them. These are women in the picture. But they are real women. Not waiting, talking dolls. There are men of courage here. Not swashbuckling imitations. The men are living their part, not acting them.

Emotion there is. But it is not the emotion of the screaming distress. Rather it is the emotion of human beings caught in the war, human beings who know why they fight, not paper-made figures waiting for the director to pull the little strings of direction.

ROYAL NAVY HERE
The Royal Navy which has guarded us all, which relieved the sea at Dunkirk, which fights the submarine, the dive-bomber, the enemy ships, is the hero of this film. But up heroes on pedestals!
